

Notes to Nerds September 14th, 2018

HAPPINESS IS

Important Stuff:

It seems that every time I set the bar you guys (umh... gals) exceed it. You better be ready for a higher bar! And thank you.

...the weekend!

I was so impressed with each and every person's preparation and effort for the Partners in Education event on Friday.

As a newcomer to the Columbus scene, I have grown to appreciate the respect that the community has for you as teachers and just darn good people. It was evident in the love that you showed for the people you met today and that they returned to you in smiles and welcomes. From the wait-staff who was genuinely surprised and heartened by winning the goldfish with his estimation to Aliya Bhatia, the presenter who took the time to visit our tables and talk. I watched, and she did not stop at every table.

I hope that you take time this weekend and enjoy what is important.

